

Eric's family has been associated with National Jewish Health for over 40 years. His father served as a former Chair of the board, and he and his sister have both been patients. Eric regards National Jewish Health as a shining beacon for Colorado, the Rocky Mountain region and the country.